When hearing the words "professional speaker" many people think of the motivational type - and the hype - and don't consider them suitable for top management conferences. However, at Marie Grey and Associates we work with the "heavyweights" of keynote speakers, whose messages can add value to your company with in-depth insight and expertise on a whole range of business topics.

Meet our

BUSINESS SPEAKERS 2008!

MALCOLM HEWITT

Renowned international business speaker
Leadership • Results • Change • Client Service

When it comes to leadership, talk is cheap, but Malcolm Hewitt has real war stories and real case studies, culminating with his time helping to change the culture and reshape Barclays Bank as the Managing Director of Sub-Saharan Africa and the Indian Ocean.

In addition, Malcolm has been operating at Managing Director level in fields from Banking to Retail to FMCG and Transport and Tourism, inspiring and driving transformation and performance for many years in Europe, the Middle East, the Indian Ocean and Africa. With years of International business experience Malcolm has been able to take an underperforming business and through 'hands on' leadership and his commitment to developing others in his team, delivered ground breaking results. His life long obsession with customer service has left a legacy of a 'can-do' culture that attracts and retains top contributors and performers.

Malcolm's specialist topics:

- Making real change happen in your business
- Building great business in sub-Saharan Africa
- Building an emotional connection with customers and colleagues
- Developing top talent, top people, and top teams

CLEM SUNTER
“Games Foxes Play” -
Planning for Extraordinary Times
Strategy • Scenario Planning • Sustainable
Business

Clem is probably best known for his “High Road/Low Road” Scenarios for South Africa in the Mid 1980’s. He was recently awarded an Honourary Doctorate by the University of Cape Town for his work in the field of scenario planning. He was also voted by leading South African CEOs as the speaker who has made the most significant contribution to, and impact on, best practice and business in South Africa. In 2006, he was invited to give a scenario presentation at the Central Party School in Beijing - a rare privilege for a foreigner. He also facilitated sessions on global warming in New Delhi and London.

His presentation style is both thought provoking and entertaining. Clem believes “We have to perform even better than the best companies in the world if we want to make any impact on South Africa’s economy”. He continues to be one of the country’s favourite speakers.

- A Zulu Future - Tips, trends and predictions for South Africa, Africa and the World

GUY LUNDY
South Africa: Looking beyond 2010
Probable Positive Outcomes • Future Fitness •
Informed Insight

South African mindsets seem fixed on a short-term perspective that seldom goes further than three or four years, certainly not beyond the 2010 Soccer World Cup. Business leaders are often fearful of the long term because of a lack of understanding of the trends and what they mean.

Guy draws on the wealth of knowledge he has gained in producing the books South Africa: Reasons to Believe and South Africa 2014: The Story of our Future, as well as through his ongoing work as a futurist, strategist and writer, to present views on what the future holds.

Focusing on the key trends shaping the next ten years in South Africa, he works to dispel some popular myths, show what can be possible and highlight what we as a nation must do to turn these possibilities into realities.
